- 1. A new Institute for Technology and Testing (Institut fuer Technologie und Pruefung) (ITP) has been established on Charlottenstrasse. East Berlin. The ITP is actually one department of the Office for Science (Amt fuer dissenschaft) of the East Berlin Magistrate. The founding of the Institute is an example of how the Magistrate is attempting to make it appear that the announced reduction of administrative offices is actually taking place. A department is taken from the administration, given a new name, and continues its work as before. It may be expected; therefore, that additional institutes will turn up.
- 2. The ITP has about 170 employees and is affiliated with several testing . . . installations for technology, foods industry, etc..
- The Institute for Economic Research (Institut fuer Tirtschaftsforschung) on Klosterstrasse also belongs to the East Berlin Hagistrate, but it has apparently been established for some time.
